

La politique, jeux et enjeux is an impressive book. I am very impressed with its comprehensiveness, including the frank and honest discussion about the political dynamics of our societies. Hudon and Poirier are not afraid to call a spade a spade. This is rare in modern political science discussion, and very welcome. Indeed without it how are our students supposed to be clued in to the reality of our present politics? I hope this work becomes the standard text in French for the next generation of political science students.
